JURY CITATION

158 Cecil Street is an impressive example of the transformative potential of landscape in a commercial precinct.

The vegetation seizes on the opportunity provided by the light wells of the building's atrium.

While the concept itself is not novel to landscape architecture globally, this is a successful Singaporean example of the ability of collaborations of Landscape Architecture with other professions to value-add to commercial buildings and office spaces.

SILA Council President 2013/2014
